Attention is given to his expansive home, Terrace Bank, the subsequent subdivision of his estate and the early residential expansion of Montreal, and to his founding of the Canada Sugar Refinery and its growth. In the sixth year of the American rebellion, Canadas governor, Frederick Haldimand, was saddled with the responsibility of defending the Crowns largest colony against the threat of Franco-American invasion.

JohnRedpathImage1. In addition to his comprehensive knowledge on the subject of sugar, he also has an avid interest in the military history of Canada, in particular the North American War of and was a founding member of both the Military Re-enactment Society of Canada and the Upper Canada Living History Association. He is the curator and corporate archivist for the Redpath Sugar Museum and is active as a living history reenactor, re-creating the life of a Canadian militia soldier from the War of His involvement in the political and military life of Montreal is traced from before the Rebellion period through to his involvement with the Annexation Movement, making him an obvious candidate for the Montreal City Council.
