They suspect that throughout its transmission down through the ages it has become something less than inspired and inerrant. The woman of folly is herself naive and unknowing, but she entices her victims by offering them a new experience, and the fact that it is illicit simply adds to the appeal. This work represents the summary of a course in ascetical and mystical theology which we have been giving for twenty years at the Angelicum in Rome.

The higher the consistency of the earliest texts, the greater their textual reliability. Shedding of blood would have significance only after the fall, as a picture of coming redemption through the blood of Christ. First, God is an architect.

Paul Apple's well done page commentary - November, -recommended resource. The interior life thus becomes more and more a conversation with God, in which man gradually frees himself from egoism, self-love, sensuality, and pride, and in which, by frequent prayer, he asks the Lord for the ever new graces that he needs.
